SUMMARY

The report presents a review of the main issues in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice as discussed during the forty-fifth session of the General Assembly, the action taken by the Assembly itself and the initial implementation by the Secretariat of the recommendations of the Assembly and of the Eighth United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders.

Priority areas in the field during 1992 and 1993 include collaborative action against transnational crime, the promotion of integrated and effective criminal justice management, the practical application of existing United Nations norms and standards, and consolidation and rationalization of the arrangements for monitoring and evaluating progress achieved.

* E/1991/30.

Of particular interest are the preparations for the intergovernmental working group and the ministerial meeting, to be held in 1991, the purpose of which is to elaborate proposals for an effective crime prevention and criminal justice programme.
